Making an entrance

The journey begins here. The lobby is guests' connection to the hotel and to the city at large – a hub of information and accommodations all at their fingertips. But the modern lobby isn't just a waystation to better amenities – it's a destination unto itself, a spacious place for friends and colleagues to relax and unwind with all the comforts of their own living room.

Restaurants

Your culinary playground

How can an in-house restaurant compete with your city's top dining? It's time for innovation. Bring in a touch of local flavor to your menu – like sustainably sourced meats, regional wines and farm-to-table produce. Top it off with the first-rate service the hospitality industry is known for, and you've created an experience that will entice guests and local diners for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

Set the stage with bold, modern dinnerware and glassware that plays with color, texture, and shape.

Luxury on call

The club lounge is a bit of a paradox: an exclusive space that offers both incredible luxury and amazing value to your guests, with a seemingly endless parade of mouthwatering food and drink presentations. If buffet-style dining is no longer an option, consider modifying your displays to better suit individual portion sizes and assuage hesitant travelers. Once they see the possibilities, guests will be asking for an upgrade with every booking.

Rooms

A private getaway

A well-appointed room is more than just a soft bed and a hot shower. It's where your guests begin and end every day, and where even the smallest details can make a stay one to remember – details like a cool bottle of water to greet travelers after a long journey, fresh-ground coffee from a local roaster or complimentary wine to celebrate a special occasion. And there's nothing more indulgent than room service: enjoying the full restaurant experience in a cozy robe and slippers. These distinctive amenities create an experience your guests will want to return to night after night.
