Resident safety is your No. 1 priority.

That's why we developed the first-ever porcelain dinnerware with integrated Microban technology, delivering 24/7 antimicrobial product protection, effective against a broad spectrum of bacteria.*

The Benefit of Proactive Defense

- Plays an important role in combatting improper adherence to cleaning procedures, supporting a system of cleanliness that complements employee hygiene requirements to meet cleanliness regulations
- Contributes to a cleaner surface by inhibiting the growth of bacteria* – an added level of defense to the inherent protection of the fully vitrified glaze
- Won't contribute to surface-to-surface microbial growth

*Applies only to bacteria that can cause stains, odors and product degradation.

Why it Matters

From dining service to buffets and in-room service, cleanliness challenges can jeopardize your reputation and success.

From dining service to buffets and room service, the journey of dinnerware to the patron includes numerous touchpoints where the product may come into contact with bacteria – during storage, plating, serving and everything in-between.

- Presence of bacteria was ranked as the top food safety concern by foodservice professionals like you, followed closely by cross contamination
- Loss or damaged reputation ranked the most worrisome consequence
- Employee hygiene and handling ranked the most at-risk food safety concerns

See page 8 for our full collection of antimicrobial dinnerware.

For more information on the effectiveness of Microban technology, contact your Libbey sales representative. Does not protect people from food-borne pathogens. Microban is a registered trademark of Microban Products Company.

How It Works

Microban protection uses natural, silver-based technology that penetrates the cell wall of the microorganism hindering its ability to function, grow or reproduce, thus controlling odors, stains and product deterioration.

WITH MICROBAN
24 HRS

On an untreated surface, bacteria can double every 20 minutes. Microban technology begins working immediately.

Senior Living & Assisted Living

Today's seniors are not only active, they're more educated, sophisticated and better traveled than any generation before. They've tasted all the world has to offer, including the finest food and drink. So, as they decide where the next chapter will take them, they're looking for more than a place to live – they're looking for a place where life is celebrated to the fullest.

For many, a fulfilling resident experience begins with dining, and expectations are higher than ever. Restaurant-inspired menus, a focus on local ingredients, and endless variety and customization are key to satisfy discerning residents (and their families).

With an unmatched selection of beautiful, functional and durable glassware and tabletop solutions to fit your community's needs, Libbey® can help you create a culture of hospitality that offers both the luxury of the world's best restaurants and the comforts of home to every meal – and earns your dining program rave reviews.

Colorful plates, confident diners

Could the color of your dinnerware improve your residents' nutrition? A 2004 Boston University study found that patients with advanced Alzheimer's ate 25% more from a red plate than they did from a white one – suggesting that the contrast between food and plate acts as a visual aid for diners with special needs.

With a range of bold and calming colors to choose from, we can help you create presentations that are not only beautiful, but that give your residents increased confidence at the table.
